2. How super works

Generally, an account-based pension can be established once you have reached your preservation age (between 55 and 60, depending on your date of birth - see Table 1) and have permanently retired from the workforce. There are limited circumstances when an account-based pension can be established earlier.

Table 1: Preservation age

Year you were born	Preservation age
Before 01/07/1960	55
01/07/1960 – 30/06/1961	56
01/07/1961 – 30/06/1962	57
01/07/1962 – 30/06/1963	58
01/07/1963 – 30/06/1964	59
01/07/1964 or after	60

Making super contributions while drawing a pension

You can still contribute to an active super account while drawing a pension, subject to the rules about contribution age and employment status. If you continue to contribute, you will need to have an active super account to receive the contributions.

Table 2: Contribution age and employment status rules

Current age	<65	65-69	70-74	>75
Personal contributions ¹	Yes	Yes*	Yes*	No
Other contributions ²	Yes	Yes*	No	No
Voluntary employer contributions ³	Yes	Yes*	Yes*	No
Mandated employer contributions	Yes	Yes	Yes	Yes

*Must meet work test requirements

What is the work test?

The work test requires that you work at least 40 hours in a period of no more than 30 consecutive days during the financial year.

How account-based pensions operate

Account-based pension funds are operated by a trustee which is responsible for all aspects of the Fund including investing your money, paying tax and ensuring compliance with regulations and legislation.

What is a transition to retirement pension?

If you have reached your preservation age but you are not ready to leave the workforce, you can access your super benefits as a retirement income stream through a TTR Pension.

TTR Pensions are 'non-commutable', meaning you cannot access lump sums from the pension until you reach retirement.

On reaching 65 years of age or meeting another condition of release, your TTR Pension can be converted to an account-based pension by completing an online application at 'Super Prophets Implement'.

As part of the administration fee, members may qualify for access to Fat Prophets research and recommendations on equities and managed investments as well as the Fat Prophets self-education centre. To establish your eligibility contact Fat Prophets prior to lodging your application.

Receiving your pension

By law, you are required to withdraw a minimum income stream from your pension account each financial year.

How can you receive your pension?

You can receive payments from your pension account in the form of a regular pension payment or lump sum withdrawals until your account balance is exhausted.⁴

If you are aged under 60, tax may be deducted from your payments.

Regular pension payments

You can choose the amount, month and frequency of your pension payments. You can choose to receive regular pension payments

- Monthly
- Quarterly
- Bi-annually
- Annually

Payments are made directly into your nominated bank account on the 25th day of the month. Where the 25th does not fall on a business day, your payment will be made on the closest business day before the 25th.

You can change the amount or frequency of your pension payments online via 'Super Prophets Implement'. Changes to pension payments must be made no later than close of business on the Friday before the pension payment is due to be processed. Changes are subject to the minimum income limit (and maximum for a TTR Pension) that applies to you for that year. You can also change your bank account details online.

Lump sum withdrawals

You may make a lump sum withdrawal from your pension account, however, TTR Pension withdrawals can only be made in one of the following circumstances:

- If your account has a unrestricted non-preserved component and your lump sum withdrawal does not exceed this amount,⁵
- If you satisfy a condition of release with a 'nil' cashing restriction (for example, retirement), or
- To give effect to a payment split under family law.

These components are carried over when you roll in to your pension account from one or more of your super funds. Before making a lump sum withdrawal, it is important to understand that in dollar terms, a reduced balance will impact future regular pension payments. To make a lump sum withdrawal all you need to do is complete the form online at 'Super Prophets Implement'.

What happens to your pension if you die?

It may be a topic many of us are reluctant to think about, but it is important that you determine what will happen with the funds in your account if you die.

Upon your death, your pension may be paid to one or more of the following beneficiaries:

¹ Personal concessional and non-concessional contributions.

² Spouse contributions and government contributions.

³ Salary sacrifice and other employer contributions in excess of super guarantee.

⁴ Generally, TTR Pension account holders are unable to make lump sum withdrawals.

⁵ Your account is made up of three components: a) unrestricted non-preserved amount, b) restricted non-preserved amount, and c) preserved amount.

- Your dependants (any spouse¹, any child, any person in an interdependency relationship² with you or any person who the Trustee considers was dependent on you for maintenance or support at the date of your death),
- Your legal personal representative (executor) to distribute as stated in your will, or
- A combination of: your dependants and your legal personal representative.

Where there is no eligible beneficiary, the Trustee may be required to pay any person who has a fair claim (as permitted by superannuation law).

Your funds will remain invested in your nominated investment option until benefit payments have been finalised. The value of your investment will reflect movements, both up and down, in the unit price for the option in which your funds are invested.

Your death benefit may be paid as either an income stream or a lump-sum payment. Only certain dependants for tax purposes are eligible to commence or continue an income stream on death.

Dependants for tax purposes include:

- Your current spouse (including same-sex couples),
- Children under 18 years of age,
- Financially dependent children aged between 18 and 25,³
- Other financial dependants (excluding children),
- Anybody in an interdependent relationship (close personal relationship, live together, and provide each other with financial support or domestic support and personal care), and
- Disabled children over 25.

You should read the important information about receiving your pension before making a decision. Go to 3. Receiving your pension in the Additional Information Guide available at www.superprophets.com.au. The material relating to receiving your pension may change between the time you read this PDS and the day when you acquire Whole Pension.

4. Risks of super

All investing involves some risk. Generally, the higher the expected return, the higher the risk and volatility of your investment. The value of your investment can rise or fall, depending on the performance of the underlying investments in a single investment option, or combination of investment options. There is also the risk of outliving your retirement savings by not planning ahead.

Whole Pension offers a range of investment options. The likely investment return, and the level of risk, is different for each investment option depending on the underlying mix of assets.

Assets with the highest return over the longer term may also have the highest level of short-term risk.

When considering your investment in pensions, it is important to understand that:

- the value of the investment will go up and down,
- the level of returns will vary, and future returns may differ from past returns,
- returns are not guaranteed and you may lose some of your money,

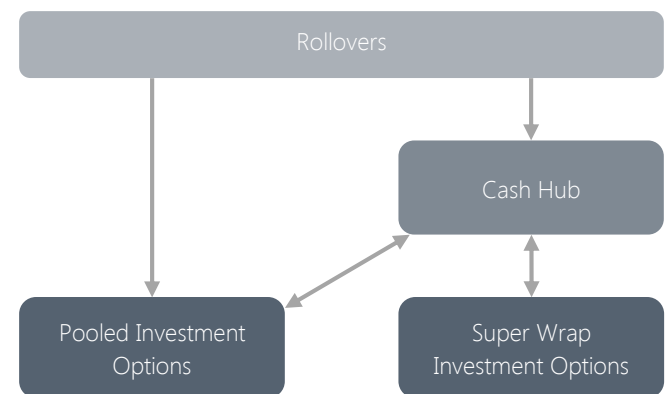

- the amount of your future superannuation savings (including contributions and returns) may not be enough to provide adequately for your retirement,
- laws affecting your super may change in the future, and
- the level of risk acceptable to you will vary depending on a range of factors including your age, your investment time frame, where other parts of your wealth are invested and your risk tolerance.

Other risks associated with investing in financial markets include:

- Inflation risk
- Market risk
- Settlement risk
- Interest rate risk
- Derivatives risk
- Currency risk
- Fund risk
- Legislative risk
- Liquidity risk
- Credit risk
- Investment management risk

You should read the important information about the risks of investing in a pension before making a decision. Go to 1. Risks of investing in the Investment Guide available at www.superprophets.com.au. The material relating to the risks of investing may change between the time you read this PDS and the day you acquire Whole Pension.

6. Fees and costs

CONSUMER ADVISORY WARNING

Did you know?

Small differences in both investment performance and fees and costs can have a substantial impact on your long term returns.

For example, total annual fees and costs of 2% of your account balance rather than 1% could reduce your final return by up to 20% over a 30 year period (for example, reduce it from $100,000 to $80,000).

You should consider whether features such as superior investment performance or the provision of better member services justify higher fees and costs.

You or your employer, as applicable, may be able to negotiate to pay lower fees.¹ Ask the fund or your financial adviser.

To find out more

If you would like to find out more, or see the impact of the fees based on your own circumstances, the Australian Securities and Investments Commission (ASIC) website (www.moneysmart.gov.au) has a superannuation fee calculator to help you check out different fee options.

7. How super is taxed

Investing in Whole Pension is a tax effective way to preserve your superannuation assets in retirement and provide you with a regular income. Your pension may be taxed and it is important that you know when it is taxed and when it is exempt from tax.

This section provides a summary of the taxation imposed on account-based pensions and when it applies. Changes to tax laws could affect the tax consequences associated with investing in Whole Pension. As the Australian taxation system is complex and different investors have different circumstances, you may need to seek professional taxation advice about investing in Whole Pension.

Why you are asked to provide your TFN

Providing a tax file number (TFN) may save you money. The online application asks you to provide your TFN. We are authorised to collect your TFN by Australian taxation law, the Superannuation Industry (Supervision) Act 1993 (Cth) and the Privacy Act 1988 (Cth). We will not disclose your TFN to any other person or body without your permission, unless required by law.

TFNs are used for:

- Calculating tax, if any, on your pension payments,
- In some circumstances, passing your TFN to the Australian Taxation Office (ATO) when you receive a pension,

- Allowing us to provide your TFN to a superannuation fund receiving any benefits you may transfer. The Trustee will not pass your TFN to any other fund without your express written consent.

Warning: You should provide the Trustee with your TFN when you join Whole Pension. Providing your TFN to the Trustee will ensure:

- Tax on your pension account will not increase,
- Other than tax that ordinarily applies, no additional tax will be deducted when you access your super,
- Tracing different super accounts in your name is easier, ensuring you receive all benefits when you retire.

If you do not provide us with your TFN, we will not be able to accept your application.

Tax when you rollover your super into Whole Pension

Generally you will not have to pay tax on any money you have rolled over from your superannuation accounts unless the amount contains an 'untaxed element'. Any untaxed element will be taxed at 15%. Typically, this will only apply if you are transferring from an untaxed super fund.

Tax on pension investment earnings

Subject to the Transfer Balance Cap, investment earnings within an account-based pension is tax free, however, earnings on investments held in a TTR Pension is taxed at 15%.

If you exceed the Transfer Balance Cap, you will need to remove the excess capital plus the excess transfer balance earnings from your pension account, and will have to pay excess transfer balance tax.

Excess Transfer Balance Cap tax

Once you have removed all the excess capital and excess transfer balance earnings from your pension account, ATO will calculate the amount of excess transfer balance tax you will need to pay and send you an assessment.

The excess transfer balance cap tax is calculated as:

- Calculate your excess transfer balance earnings from the day you first exceed the cap to the date of rectification
- Multiply your earnings by the excess transfer balance tax rate.

The rate of excess transfer balance tax is 15% for any excess periods that start in the 2017/18 financial year. From 1 July 2018 the rate is 15% for the first year breach and then 30% for subsequent breaches.

Tax when you receive your pension

When you establish your account, the balance of your pension account will be split into a tax free component and a taxable component. The proportions are carried over in the same ratios when you roll in one or more super funds to your pension account.

Tax free component

The tax free component comprises a crystallised segment and a contributions segment. The crystallised segment includes any of the following amounts that applied to your super account(s) at 30 June 2007:

- Concessional component
- Pre-July 1983 component
- Post-June 1994 invalidity component
- Capital gains tax exempt component
- Un-deducted contributions since 1 July 1983

The contributions segment includes contributions made from 1 July 2007 for which a tax deduction has not been claimed. Typically, this would be non-concessional contributions.

Taxable component

The taxable component varies depending on your age and whether you receive your pension as pension payments or as a lump sum.

When you receive your pension as pension payments

Age 60 and over: All payments are tax free.

Age 55¹ to 59: There is a tax free component and a taxable component. The taxable component is taxed at your marginal rate, plus applicable levies, less any superannuation pension tax offset to which you are entitled. Tax will be automatically deducted from your pension payment and paid to the ATO. There is no tax payable on the tax-free component.

What is the Superannuation Pension tax offset?

If you have reached your preservation age you are entitled to a 15% tax offset on the taxable component. Other offsets may apply including the Senior Australians and pensioner tax offset. More information can be found on the ATO's website www.ato.gov.au.

When you receive your pension as a lump sum payment

Age 60 and over: All payments are tax free.

Age 55¹ to 59. There is a tax free component and a taxable component. The taxable component is tax free up to the Low Rate Cap. In 2018/19 the Low Rate Cap is $205,000. The cap is indexed to AWOTE and rounded down to the nearest multiple of $5,000. Amounts above the cap are taxed at 15%, plus applicable levies.

Tax on death benefits

Tax payable on your pension in the event of your death depends on:

- Whether the amount is paid as a lump sum or as a reversionary pension,
- Whether your beneficiaries are tax dependants (see definition of "dependants for tax purposes" in following paragraph),
- Your age at the time of your death and the age of your beneficiaries when they receive the benefit.

Dependants for tax purposes are defined as:

- A spouse or former spouse,²
- A child less than 18,
- Any person who had an interdependency relationship immediately before death,³
- Any other person who was dependent on the member immediately before death.

When your death benefit is paid as an income stream

The tax treatment of income streams for dependants for tax purposes is included in the table below:

Age of deceased/ recipient	Component	Tax rate in 2018/19
If either aged 60 or over	Tax free component	Non-assessable non-exempt income
	Taxable component – taxed element	Non-assessable non-exempt income
	Taxable component – untaxed element	Marginal tax rate plus applicable levies, less 10% offset
If both aged under 60	Tax free component	Non-assessable non-exempt income
	Taxable component – taxed element	Marginal tax rate plus applicable levies, ⁴ less 15% offset

	Taxable component – untaxed element	Marginal tax rate plus applicable levies
--	-------------------------------------	--

When your death benefit is paid as a lump sum

Beneficiary	Component	Tax rate in 2018/19
Tax dependant	Tax free component	Non-assessable non-exempt income
	Taxable component	Non-assessable non-exempt income
Non-tax dependant	Tax free component	Non-assessable non-exempt income
	Taxable component – taxed element	Marginal tax rate or 15% plus applicable levies, whichever is lower

GST and Reduced Input Tax Credits

All fees and costs are inclusive of GST unless expressly stated otherwise. We may be able to claim a reduced input tax credit (RITC) of up to 75% of the GST paid on some of these fees. This may include fees for certain brokerage services, investment portfolio management, administrative functions and Custodial Services. We may also be able to claim an RITC of 55% of the GST paid on some of the other fees charged. Where we are able to claim an RITC, we will retain the RITC.

Social Security

To be eligible for the Age Pension, you must meet a range of requirements, including an assets test and an income test.

Your Whole Pension account balance is currently included in the assets test. Similarly your Whole Pension is also assessed against the income test.

The deeming rules are the same as those that currently apply to financial investments outside of superannuation.

Deeming assumes that the account-based pension earns a certain rate of income. The actual income from the pension is not used for income test assessment, even if the income earned is above (or below) the deeming rates.

The current deeming rates and thresholds are outlined below:

- For a single pensioner, the first $51,200 of the financial investments is deemed to earn income at 1.75% p.a. and any amount over that is deemed to earn income at 3.25% p.a.
- For a pensioner couple, the first $85,000 (combined) or $42,500 each members of a non-pensioner couple, is deemed to earn 1.75% p.a. and any amount over that is deemed to earn income at 3.25% p.a.

¹ For those born after 1/7/1960, age 55 is replaced with your preservation age.

² Including same-sex couples.

³ An interdependency relationship is a relationship in which a person and the customer have a close personal relationship, whereby they live together and one of them provides the other with financial support, domestic support and personal care. If they do not live together due to physical, psychiatric or intellectual disability, an interdependency relationship may still exist.

⁴ The income will be tax free once your beneficiary turns 60.

If you are receiving a social security income support payment from Centrelink and have an account-based pension opened before 1 January 2015, your account will not be subject to deeming and will continue to be assessed under the current rules.

However if you choose to change an existing product to a new product, or purchase a new product after 1 January 2015, the new product will be assessed under the deeming rules.

In addition, from 1 January 2015, if you (or your partner) stop receiving income support payments, your account based pension may be reassessed using the deeming rules if you receive these payments again in the future.

As the taxation and social security implications of superannuation pensions can be complex we recommend that you obtain professional financial advice relevant to your personal situation before making any decisions.

Warning: Tax laws are subject to changes from time to time. This information considers taxation issues in a general way and should not be considered as tax advice. Investors should seek appropriate advice from a tax professional which considers their personal circumstances before they make an investment decision.
